IAHH Goals

- To create an ongoing movement to evolve a humane habitat through a series of interactions at the international, regional, national and local levels.
- To create societal and global awareness on the issues of humane habitat.
- To exchange theoretical knowledge, research studies and practical experience on the issues.
- To develop theoretical tools, techniques and methodologies to understand the complexity of the issues through analytical studies.
- To evolve appropriate and sustainable alternative policies, programmes and projects to make global habitat more livable, affordable and humane.

IAHH Objectives

- To develop a programme of international interaction, including conferences, workshops and symposia.
- To organize exhibitions and competitions on the theme and sub themes of the conferences.
- To publish documents, studies and monographs on the subject and issues.
- To develop a network of institutions, universities, academicians and professionals concerned with the issues.
- To raise resources to support and sustain interactions, studies and research programme on the subject.

F I F T H I N T E R N A T I O N A L

The International Association for Humane Habitat (IAHH) is a voluntary organisation promoting the goals and objectives of evolving humane habitat, through sustainable development, appropriate planning and innovative design. IAHH pleased to announce the 1st INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS COMPETITION FOR PLANNING AND DESIGN OF HOUSING FOR THE POOR.

Rizvi College of Architecture is hosting the 5th annual International Conference on Humane Habitat at Mumbai, India. The conference is organised in association with the Brihan Mumbai Centre of the Indian Institute of Architects and the Forum of Colleges of Architecture, University of Mumbai, India. The Commonwealth Association of Architects also endorses the competition.

The Jury

The Jury shall consist of:

Prof. Peter Schreiber,
Architect, Technical University of Graz, Austria

Prof. Thomas Bock,
Architect, Technical University of Munich, Germany

Prof. Rodney Harber,
Architect Planner, University of Natal, South Africa

Prof. Ashish Ganju,
Architect, New Delhi, India

Dr. B. S. Bhooshan,
Architect Planner, Mysore, India

The Theme

Housing for the urban poor

It is said that there are more than 1 billion homeless people in the world and there are nearly 2 billion people, i.e. one third of humanity, who are compelled to live in inadequate housing conditions. It is the purpose of the design competition to inquire into these communities of the urban poor / underprivileged people.

The student competitors are required to identify such a community in their own country or in any other country anywhere in the world. The community may be about 3000 to 5000 people or so and the site may be around 10 ha or less. The student participants shall study the community to understand the complexity of issues involved, and plan and design for its up-gradation / reconstruction / development.

The design requires planning and design for a community of about 1000 to 1200 dwelling units or so situated in a site covering a maximum area of 10 ha. The housing typology and units may vary as per the social, cultural, economic and environmental context. The housing units varying from 15 sq.mt., 30 sq.mt., 45 sq.mt., 50 sq.mt. to 60 sq.mt. (three to five types) should be affordable to the urban poor, energy efficient and climate responsive.

The design of housing units, community structure, facilities, infrastructure, pedestrian and vehicular access and quality of living environment are the key concerns. The proposed plans and designs shall aim to evolve a more humane community through sustainable and affordable development strategy; appropriate construction and technology; and innovative planning, architectural and environmental design. These shall be the main criteria for evaluation.

Submission Requirements

The design submissions shall be presented on 6 A1 drawings / 3 A0 drawings which shall include:

a. 2 A1 panels for contextual, social, economic and environmental analysis, site analysis of the existing community covering an area of a maximum of 10 ha showing its location in the urban context along with photographs.

b. One A1 panel for proposed community development plan scale 1: 500 / 1: 1000 for a community of about 3000 to 5000 people or more.

c. Three A1 panels for innovative designs for housing typology and units for families (scale 1: 100), clusters of houses / residences and supporting infrastructure and community facilities including for education, health care, cultural and social activities, sports and recreation, shopping, workplaces and local commercial establishments. (scale 1: 200).

d. A brief report identifying the context, analysis, concept, planning and design approach of the proposal on not more than 10 A4 sheets.

e. The participants may send CDs containing the drawing and report for publication purposes. These CDs may be used by the jury for consideration of the Awards. However, the drawings must be submitted. CDs alone will not be acceptable.

Eligibility

The competition is open to all registered students of any nationally recognized school, college or institution of architecture. The participants may be individuals or teams of students. The student shall fill in the registration form and supporting certificate of the head / director of the school / college or institution of architecture.

Terms and Conditions

1. The participants shall assume a seven digit numerical code, which shall be written in right hand bottom corner of the drawing in a 9cm x 9cm box.

2. A sealed envelope containing the identification form with the name/s of the participant/s and institution and the seven digit numerical code written within a 9cm x 9cm box shall be enclosed with the submission of entry.

and white and or colour and they shall be prints of the originals. No original drawing shall be sent.

4. The documents shall be sent by airmail / couriers and not by airfreight companies.

5. The drawing copyright shall be with the authors.

6. The IAHH shall have the right to its publication and exhibition.

7. The drawings shall not be returned, as they shall be required for travelling exhibition and publication.

8. IAHH may bring out a publication documenting award winners and significant projects. The winning projects may be published in professional and institutional journals.

9. The jury shall have full freedom to decide on the awards and their decision shall be final and binding on all the participants.

10. The IAHH guarantees a free and fair student design competition.
